Miss Williams and Miss Jester are Runners-up.

Miss Helen Yochim, Lisbon,
and Francis A. Hale, Chester, seniors, will represent Columbiana county, Ohio, and Hancock county, W. Va., respectively, in the west region high school oratorical contest which will be held in the Jefferson county courthouse at Steubenville, at 8 o'clock Monday night.

Lisbon Contest.

They were selected at county contests in the David Anderson high school auditorium at Lisbon and at the First Methodist Protestant church of New Cumberland, last night. Winners in Jefferson county, Ohio; Brooke, Ohio and Marshall counties, West Virginia, and Washington county, Pennsylvania, will also take part in the Steubenville meet.

Miss Yochim won the Columbiana county honor over Miss Helen M.
Williams, Salem, and Lloyd Lange, Salineville. Miss Williams was awarded second place, while young Lange was third.

Miss Yochim's subject was "The Origins of the Constitution." Miss Williams' "Personalities of the Constitution" and "Lange's 'Lincoln and the Constitution'."

H. C. Leonard, Lisbon, county superintendent of schools, presided.
Judges were Prosecuting Attorney
John Banknecht, East Palestine; E.

M. Williams, of Salem, was second.
By reason of their victories, Hale and Miss Yochim are champion orators of their home counties.

7,000 Persons Cling to Alabama Housetops As Death Toll Mounts

National Guardsmen Will Attempt to Rescue
Newly-found Group of Victims on Island
North of Relief Base Near Elba—Conditions
Are Reported Extremely Critical.

PREPARATIONS ARE MADE TO RUSH FOOD TO INUNDATED DISTRICTS

Dire Tales of Suffering are Related by Refugees Who Face Exposure and Hunger as Rivers in South Overflow Banks and Exact Heavy Property Damage.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 16.—(INS)—Carrying a week's emergency ration for 1,000 persons, two coast guard boats left the Santa Rosa coast guard station at Pensacola, Fla., today for the flood area in Alabama, the American Red Cross was advised today. The boats will proceed up the Pea and Choctawhatchee rivers.

Red Cross national headquarters here today directed all chapters in Alabama, Georgia and northern Florida to issue an appeal for funds for flood relief.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 16.—(INS)—Five thousand persons are hanging on to the highest roofs in Geneva, Ala., for their lives, while swirling waters that have submerged all one-story buildings cut wide torrents across the town, reports received here today said.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER IS 14 FEET ABOVE FLOOD STAGE IN IOWA

KEOKUK, Iowa, March 15.—The Mississippi river was 14 feet above flood stage here today.

A party of three men, two women and a child, six months old, marooned in a cabin boat on the river's edge, were rescued by police this morning.
They were carried through ice and water to higher ground.

The group at first refused to leave the boat and demanded their rescuers produce warrants. It was some time before they could be made to realize their danger.

NATIONAL GUARD RELIEF BASE NEAR ELBA, Ala., Mar. 16.—(INS)—From seven hundred to 1,000 additional persons mar- ooned by flood waters were found on an island north of here by National Guardsmen this morning.

The officers stated an attempt would be made to rescue the newly-found group of flood victims some time this afternoon. All available forces are now working on saving the some 2,000 persons still clinging to housetops in Elba Proper.

Meanwhile advices here from Maxwell Field, Montgomery, said preparations were being rushed there to take food and supplies to the people on the marooned island this morning.

It was declared that the condition on the island, located one and one-half miles from the Troy highway, was extremely critical, and that the people were clustered on rooftops and some of them were perched in trees while the high water literally lapped at their feet.

SOUTHEAST PRESENTS APPALLING PICTURE OF DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

BY HENRY LESENE.

ATLANTA, March 16.—From the Atlantic seaboard westward to the swollen Father of Waters, the southeast today presented an appalling cyclorama of death and destruction.
Thirty-one persons dead in the southeastern sector, millions of dollars damage to property, something like 20,000 homeless and suffering from exposure and hunger, and probably many hundreds drowned whose bodies will not be discovered until the flood waters recede. That was the southeast's enormous toll exacted by spring floods, as compiled in the International News Service bureau here. There are thousands of lives still in peril, and further developments or unavoidable tardiness in rescue may increase the death list considerably.

Wild Reports of Death List.
Unconfirmed reports would pile up the death toll far beyond that, but so far as it was known this morning, only five deaths have occurred in the Elba section. Wild reports placed the death list beyond the 100 mark,
but neither the base at Montgomery, nor the National Guard stations on the edge of Elba could confirm these.

Georgia's Toll Mounts.
Georgia's death toll grew to 13
when a railroad employe was killed by a washout near Manchester. Flood waters which had not receded Wednesday and Thursday when rains poured additional cascades into the swollen streams had previously claimed 12 lives.

Some improvement was seen today

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN ADVANCE UPON RAVAGED TOWN OF 4,000

By ANGUS A. ACREE.
(International News Service Special Correspondent.)

ENTERPRISE, Ala., Mar. 16.—When the first streak of a gray and dismal dawn pierced the fog-laden Elba flood area today, several score of small motorboats operated by Alabama national guardsmen, advanced again upon the ravaged town in an attempt to rescue more than half of its 4,000 population still clinging to housetops and trees.

According to officers at the national guard base on the edge of the flood sector, nearly half of the terror-stricken residents of Elba have been taken to emergency refugee camps put together hastily on high ground in Coffee county. Dire tales of suffering were related by some of the refugees, who for 48 hours faced exposure and hunger.

Five were known to be dead in the Elba catastrophe, and two were missing. But just how many probably are dead will not be known for days until the waters recede. Persons who have flown over the flood district

Funeral services for Harlan E. Hall, 58, former assistant principal of the East Liverpool high school, who died in the home of his sister, Mrs. Clyde Lees, Zanesville, Thursday, following an illness of more than a year, will be held at the Trimmer funeral home in Zanesville at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be made in Oak Grove cemetery there.

Mr. Hall, who was born in Muskingum county, began teaching when 15 years of age. He graduated from Mt.
Union college, at Alliance, and later took post graduate work at Boston university. He was principal of the Mansfield high school for several years. He came to East Liverpool in 1924 and resigned about the middle of last term because of ill health.

TWO MEN BURNED IN GAS BLAST

Arthur Deshier, 52, of 912 Chestnut street, foreman, and Jackson
T. Eddy, 46, of 1619 Park avenue, engineer, were burned on the face,
arms and hands in a gas explosion
at the plant of the Louthan Manufacturing company in Harvey avenue at 10 o'clock this morning.

The men were repairing the motor of an air distributor in one of the kilns when the blast occurred. Four skylights in the kilnshed were blown out by the explosion.

The victims were taken to the City hospital where Dr. M. D.
McCutcheon dressed their burns.

Fate of Elias and Arthur Arnold, Held In Horst Kidnaping, Rests in Hands of Jury

Any 'Reasonable Doubt'
Means Acquittal,
Judge Says.

WOOSTER, O., March 16.—The fate of Elias and Arthur Arnold, father and son, on trial here for the alleged kidnaping of four-year-old Melvin Horst, was given into the hands of the jury of seven men and five women at 10:13 o'clock this morning.

It is for the jury to decide whether the two Arnolds are guilty of the abduction of the little boy from the streets of Orrville on the night of Dec. 27.

Insane Man Kills Tot, Wounds 3, Ends Life

Fitchburgh, Mass., Electrician, Who Was Devoutly Religious, Attempts to Wipe Out Family.

FITCHBURGH, Mass., March 16.—
Suddenly going insane, Charles H.
Scott, an electrician who was devoutly religious, early today shot and killed his nine-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, wounded his six-year-old son,
Richard, his eleven-year-old son,
Charles, and his wife and then succeeded in taking his own life.

The shooting occurred in the Scott home here a short time after the father and children had returned from church.

Mrs. Scott stepped in front of a bullet intended for Charles H., Jr. The father used a pistol in his attempt to wipe out his family and a shotgun to kill himself.

MAN HELD AFTER CHURCH ATTACK

Anthony Guadagno, 26, New Kensington Italian, who was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Harroff and Lewis, last night, after he is alleged to have forced his way into the St. Patrick's Catholic church at Leetonia and attempted to wreck the interior of the edifice, was adjudged insane in probate court, Lisbon, today. He was committed to the state hospital at Massillon.

Guadagno was overpowered by seven Leetonia parishioners last night and held pending arrival of the deputy sheriffs.

MAN, WOMAN DIE IN CHICAGO FIRE

CHICAGO, March 16.—An unidentified man and woman lost their lives in an apartment building fire here today.

A parrot in the building that screamed "fire! fire! fire!" at the top of its voice was credited with saving many lives.

LESTER TUCKER IS EXONERATED

Lester Tucker, 198 West Drury lane, who was arrested a few days ago
upon a charge of grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of copper wire from the Martin coal mine in California Hollow, was exonerated at a hearing, Municipal Judge J. C.
Hanley said today. The charge was dismissed.

The dead include Mr. and Mrs.
John E. Lynn, Mrs. Anthony Dy-
leskie and John Zabotaki. Anthony Dyleskie was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Police were informed they had
been at a wake and were on their way home when they met with the mishap.

SAWS IN SHOES WINS FREEDOM

DAYTON, O., March 16.—A 17-year-old youth, incarcerated in municipal prison here Thursday night when apprehended while attempting to "borrow" an automobile, was at liberty today because he had the foresight to conceal sawblades in his shoes whenever he set out to "pull a job."

He is Hollis Wells. The boy sawed his way from the jail early today, stole another automobile and is believed to be headed for "points west." According to the lad's cellmates, Wells had several sawblades concealed in his shoes.

CORONER RULES IN BAILEY DEATH

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, of East Palestine, today rendered a verdict of "death by his own hands" in the case of John Bailey, 55, steamboat fireman, who died in the City hospital yesterday afternoon after cutting his throat with a razor at his home near the Tremle and Homer Laughlin potteries, East End.

Bailey leaves two sons, Clyde and Everett; two daughters, Mrs. Chester Benson and Mrs. John Roberts;
two brothers, Frank and Edward Bailey, East Liverpool, and two sisters who live in Akron.

The body is being held at the Kelly funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

FOUR ARE KILLED ON CROSSING

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Mar. 16.—
Four North Wilkes-Barre residents lost their lives at 2 o'clock this morning when their automobile was struck by a Lehigh Valley engine at a street crossing.

A fifth member of the party was seriously injured.

The dead include Mr. and Mrs.
John E. Lynn, Mrs. Anthony Dy-
leskie and John Zabotaki. Anthony Dyleskie was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Police were informed they had
been at a wake and were on their way home when they met with the mishap.

MANY KILLED, 200 HURT IN WRECK

TOKIO, March 16.—Many persons were believed to have been killed today and about 200 injured when an express train bound here from Shimonoeki was derailed enroute.

Most of the casualties were in the four second and third class coaches of the train.

Rescuers encountered difficulty in extricating the victims from the debris and were unable to estimate the number of dead.

THE Prince of Wales has given up his jumping horses because of his father's illness. But he has not given up the pasture, free from danger, of inventing new clothes.

He starts London, says the Associated Press, by appearing at a boys' boxing championship wearing "a double-breasted dinner jacket," (that's what Americans call a Tuxedo), a soft shirt, no starch in it, soft cuffs, a soft-turned-down collar, a black bow tie and a "grey checked pullover," whatever that may be.

That wouldn't startle anybody in America. Herbert Swopes, who is twice as big as the Prince of Wales, and knows him intimately, has worn
all of that outfit, with the possible exception of the "pullover," for a number of years.

The important thing—every American should remember it—is the soft collar.

Hard, starched collars pressing on the big blood vessels on either side of your neck stop the flow of blood to the brain. And what is worse, they press upon the pneumogastric nerve hidden away under one of those great blood vessels, most important perhaps of all the nerves in the body.

It isn't necessary to wear a sloppy

Children's Home Cost $26,123 For One Year

Report of Operating Expenses and Income, of Yellow Creek Institution Approved by Commissioners; 1929 Budget Compiled.

WELLSVILLE, O., Mar. 16.—McCallough Jefferson County Children's Home at Yellow Creek was operated during the year of 1928 at a cost of $26,123, according to figures contained in the annual report filed yesterday with the Jefferson county commissioners. The report was approved. And of this amount, Jefferson county pays $15,816, the deficiency after an income of $10,307.06 is checked against expenses. New equipment cost $499.85, the report shows.

Receipts from board money during the year totaled $4,721.30; receipts from sale of products, $76.39 and income from gifts, $5,509.46. For the current year the commissioners, in their appropriation budget for the county the first of the year, appropriated $28,320 for use of the home in 1929.

73 Are Enrolled.

According to the report 47 boys and 37 girls were received into the home during the year; 54 children were returned to parents of guardians; 28 placed in family homes, leaving an enrollment of 73 at the close of 1928. The total number of children in private homes subject to the control of the board of trustees of the home is 85.

Health conditions in the home are reported as "exceptionally good," with all children vaccinated against smallpox and immunized against diphtheria.

The complete report of maintenance cost for 1928 is as follows: salary of superintendent and matron, $1,800; visiting agent salary, $1,125; medical services, $882; wages of employees, $5,323; food, $6,477.31; fuel and light, $2,400.94; wearing apparel, $1,369.82; drugs and medicines, $345.86; education and recreation, $489.84; automobile, $500; auto supplies and repairs, $351.17; general repairs, $1,170.50; farm supplies, $1,345.35; traveling expenses, $1,835.35; miscellaneous operating expenses, $1,310.02; board of children in private homes, $309.

Sanford C. Hill Was Teacher Of First School In City

Log Structure, Which Occupied Site of Present Central Building in Fourth Street, Was Erected in 1827.

Sanford C. Hill, grandfather of Attorney Walter B. Hill, was East Liverpool's first school teacher.

He taught in the log structure erected in 1827 on the present site of the Central building in Fourth street, according to the initial issue of The East Liverpool Weekly Tribune, published Saturday, January 22, 1876, a copy of which is in the possession of Mrs. Florence Canning, West Fourth street.

In 1848, the log school was razed to make room for a brick building. Then the common school was organized with A. H. Martin as teacher.

W. C. Orr Superintendent in 1852.

In 1852 William C. Orr was the superintendent.

Another new building was erected on the site in 1870, and T. J. Duncan placed in charge. This structure, which many residents of East Liverpool will recall, was torn down in 1894 to permit erection of the central building.

The enrollment in 1872 was 608. A year later when Prof. Van B. Baker became superintendent, the enrollment increased to 708. Baker left the city in 1875 when the Rev. G. W. Riddle was named superintendent. The teachers at that time were Misses Carrie Shepherd, Tillie Ashbaugh, Annie E. Brooks, Mattie J. Baum, Dora M. Glass, Clara E. Banta, Jennie M. Gross, Kate Barker, Mattie B. Huston, Mary A. Smith and Carrie A. Brockman. Miss Euphemia B. Huston was high school principal.

The Weekly Tribune, consisting of four five-column pages, was published by the late J. H. Simms, founder of the Daily Tribune, and T. R. Bradshaw. Simms and Bradshaw bought the East Liverpool Democrat, founded by Enoch Bradshaw, in 1869, and at the same time changed the name of the paper to The Weekly Tribune. T. R. Bradshaw retired a year later, Simms becoming sole owner.

Pottery Story in Edition.

The Weekly Tribune was first published in second floor quarters of the postoffice building at Second and Union streets. The plant was later moved to the W. L. Thompson music house, Broadway, where a steam engine was installed to operate the press. It later moved to South Market street, where The Daily Tribune was launched by Simms in 1900.

The publication contains a story regarding a visit of eastern pottery manufacturers to East Liverpool on

GARFIELD P. T. A. MEETS MONDAY

Rhythmic Orchestra Will Give Demonstration.

First real demonstration of rhythmic music as adopted by primary pupils in the local schools under the supervision of D. W. Hoover, director of music, will be given Monday night by 22 Garfield building pupils as a feature of the Garfield Parent-Teachers association meeting.

The rhythmic instruments are small cymbals, triangles and similar pieces from which tones are produced by striking. According to Hoover, they give the beginning student a primary conception of time and other requisites for a higher musical education.

At a recent meeting of the Macdonald building P. T. A., the Ninth street building association voted also to purchase a set of the instruments, authorizing Hoover to make arrangements for the purchase.

Miss Mary Helen Stewart will instruct Macdonald pupils while the demonstration Monday night at Garfield will be conducted by Miss Mary Jenkins, teacher in the west end building.

The Garfield rhythmic orchestra has progressed rapidly since its organization several weeks ago.

Reports of the district teachers' meeting in Lisbon recently will be given. Vocal and instrumental music in addition to recitations and talks, will round out the program.

Mrs. D. S. Yates, president of the Garfield association, will be in charge of the meeting.

BRIDGE PARTY AT SAVAGE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Savage entertained members of their bridge club last night at their home in Tenth street.

Three tables were in play during the evening, trophies being awarded to Mrs. Thelma Miller and Harry Kampmann.

At the close of the playing, luncheon was served by the hostess, St. Patrick's day colors and suggestions were used in the decorations and appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams were guests.

Next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller in Broadway.

ARMY OUTPOST IS ORGANIZED

Major Joseph Hughes in Charge of First Meeting.

With marked enthusiasm and every indication that the departure will be of a permanent nature, a Salvation Army outpost was organized in Wellsville last night by officers and members of the East Liverpool corps, a generous representation of its membership being present and taking part in the proceedings.

Assisted by Mrs. Major Hughes and Captain Lily Lund, Major Joseph Hughes, East Liverpool, was in direct charge. At the conclusion of music by the East Liverpool Salvation Army band and the other preliminary services incident to the organization, Major Hughes preached to the assembled people, more than 160 in all.

For the time being it was decided to hold Sunday school by the Army every Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnhart. There will also be held a Monday night class each week and on each Thursday night, a public meeting.

Allen Baldwin, Clifton Hutchinson, Harold Stanberry and Earl Galloway contributed instrumental music, using two cornets, an alto and a trombone. "The only way to resist temptation is to have a full salvation," declared Major Hughes in his discourse. "We are at times beset with evil thoughts. If there is no evil within us, then there is without and it is suggested to us.

"To overcome these we should think holy thoughts, fill our minds with them.

"And we should continue to pray without ceasing. If we fill our hearts with the good then evil will be excluded from it that which is bad."

He spoke of the reading of evil books and the many of them that can these days be procured. He suggested the reading of "God's Student Manual" and the "Holy Scriptures."

"We should use wisdom. By putting God in our hearts we can keep the devil out of it. Any other way will fail."

He spoke also in favor of healthful recreation, that which will stimulate and invigorate the best in mankind.

"It is foolish to say that the child of God cannot have pleasure in this life," he said. "When Christ comes to the human soul the acme of his human enjoyment is reached. Then, in accomplishment, service, creation and the ever growing hope within, true pleasure, hitherto unprecedented, will begin in one's life. It is to such a pleasure we commend all not having experienced it."

Let's Make It a Safe Week-end!

How many accidents over the week-end?
This is the usual question in newspaper offices on Monday morning, when reporters begin a check-up of Saturday and Sunday automobile crashes.

Experience proves that most traffic accidents occur between noon, Saturday and Monday morning. And Columbiana county generally contributes its share of the Ohio toll of dead and injured.

If favorable weather prevails, Buckeye state highways will be dotted with automobiles tomorrow. There will be reckless as well as careful operators at the wheels of many of the motor cars. And, too, some of them will be tempted to "step on the gas" while others will no hesitate to pass another car on a curve at high speed and without giving warning of the intention. The one-arm driver and other traffic menaces also will be on the road.

In considering safeguards against accidents over the week-end, it would not be amiss to take to heart the advice given by Benjamin G. Eynon, motor vehicle registrar for Pennsylvania, who takes up the cudgels for the American pedestrian in an interview, "First Aid to the Undertaker," in the Saturday Evening Post. In short, he says that "speed is not the root of most automotive evils; inattention is the chief cause of vehicular accidents." He points out that motor vehicles do not wreck themselves, for a human being is at fault in the vast majority of accidents.

Let's make certain the car is mechanically O. K., then exercise common sense rules of safety on county roads tomorrow!

Disarming The Anthem

French pacifists believe that after the creation of the League of Nations, the negotiation of the Locarno pact and the signing of the Kellogg treaty, it is time to talk about the disarmament of national armaments.

Usually when disarmament is discussed people are tempted to think principally of foreign lands. But in this case it is suggested that the "Marseillaise" might be taken as a starter.

Nearly all national anthems are more or less bellicose, but it appears that the Marseillaise is particularly so—although in its origin it was a revolutionary song. "Come, children of the fatherland, The day of glory has arrived!"

The rest of the first stanza is a recital of frightful atrocities said to have been perpetrated by the implacable enemy, and it ends with an appeal to make the furrows of France run red with the blood of the alien invader.

No definite substitute is proposed. It is difficult to imagine fitting pacifistic words to the martial music of the Marseillaise.

Suppose we should try—Come, children of International brotherhood, The day of Geneva is here.

The World Court will settle our possible differences, The Anti-War Treaty will defend us against aggressors, Disarm! Disarm!

And let whoever transgresses the comity of nations Be forever despised by all righteous people!

It might not sound so bad translated into Esperanto, but it's not exactly the sort of thing that will cause enthusiastic crowds to throw their hats in the air.

The French are essentially a peaceful people, but they like their "Marseillaise" with a bit of snap in it, and we cannot very well blame them.

Hoover Is Farmer

Although he kept the fact almost completely hidden when it might have brought him additional thousands of votes in the recent campaign, Herbert Hoover is cognizant of the farmer's problems not from observation and study alone, but from practical experience. The incoming president is, and has been since 1920, owner of a 1,313-acre farm in California that is a model of scientific operation and diversification.

Frederic William Wile, Washington correspondent of the Farm Journal, has obtained figures on the new national executive's farming activities which he publishes in the current issue of that national agricultural monthly. They reveal that Hoover, as a farmer, employs as many as 200 hands during the peak harvesting season and that his annual farm payroll amounts to $75,000.

"Hoover's acres are an object lesson in diversification of crops," says Wile. "They contain vineyards producing 10 varieties of table grapes with a yearly output of 600,000 pounds. There are also some 3,000 acres in cotton, 200 acres in alfalfa, 150 acres in potatoes, 100 acres in corn, 130 acres in peaches, 90 acres in watermelons and muskmelons, 90 acres in Spanish onions, 50 to 60 acres in sweet potatoes, 70 acres in apricot."

In addition the presidential farm will give the Californian first-hand information on problems of the poultry raiser, dairyman and rancher. The poultry yards contain some 2,500 hens, and there are 200 hogs and 150 hogs.

Legion's Birthday

Ten years ago yesterday a little group of men who had gone through the harrowing experiences of a great war, the greatest of all time, sat around a marble-topped table in a little cafe in Paris. Then and there the American Legion was given its inception and life.

The ground work for this great organization was well laid. Promptly upon return to America, veterans of the service in army, navy, air and marine corps set up Legion posts everywhere. No town is too small today to find an active and progressive group of Legionnaires. Most large cities have two, three and four posts. Notable have been the accomplishments. Great has been the pleasure of contact, association and reminiscence.

The American Legion's birthday is occasion for congratulation that in East Liverpool there is a bound unit of men determined to perpetuate the memory of their fallen comrades, to participate socially in affairs of worth, to lead and to follow in civic developments.

The East Liverpool post is growing under a spirited membership campaign. It should include every man who has received his honorable discharge from government service.

Under the guidance of J. H. Browne, and his fellow officers, there are worth-while projects in store. They are enabled to build upon the foundation laid by their predecessors in post command. The post holds a strong place in community affairs.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 16.—One more step in tearing down the temporary war-time buildings of Washington was determined by the regular session of congress which ended with the close of the Coolidge administration. Two blocks of the area lying between the capitol building and the Union station are to be cleared of the temporary structures during the coming year, and the whole area is to be cleared and beautified as part of the capitol grounds by 1932.

The wreckage of the war is being cleaned out of northern France more rapidly than out of Washington, D. C., according to some observers, who wonder why the rich nation which contributes millions to rebuilding the ill-brary at Louvain and repairing the cathedral at Rheims, does not quickly wipe out the shacks which were thrown up over night to house the extra war-time activities of its capital city.

The repair of the war damage to Washington may be a little slow, but it appears to be steady and sure, and will result in some fine new buildings in time. Just now the person who is doing the most to hasten this reconstruction of the world's finest capital is the man after whom it is named, George Washington. Since that statesman has been dead more than a century, let us hasten to explain that this connection to the present speeding up of reconstruction in the capital consists of having been born almost two centuries ago. The year 1932 is the two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birth, and the proposed celebration of that event serves as a constant reminder and incentive to congress and all others in authority to get the capital city in tiptop shape for the occasion.

Another act of the late congress authorized the national boulevard to Mt. Vernon, the old Washington homestead, and provides for finishing that by 1932. As this magnificent highway will not lie in the District of Columbia at all, but along the Virginia shore of the Potomac, it is doubly important to get an early start on the job. Agreements have to be made with the State of Virginia, with the counties of Arlington and Fairfax, with the city of Alexandria and with many property owners, to get this great project started. It is not a simple problem for even the wealthy federal government to sweep a two-hundred-foot boulevard along twenty miles of the shore of a busy river, including the water front of a city of thirty thousand people.

Just how little things come up to delay and upset the plans for developing Washington and its environs into the beauty spot which it is planned to be, is illustrated by one episode in the planning and building of the Arlington Memorial bridge and this Mt. Vernon boulevard, which will extend from the south end of the bridge to Mt. Vernon. With the bridge two-thirds complete and the boulevard authorized its first appropriation made by congress, a local meat packing company calmly announced that it was about to erect a new packing plant on some property it owns in Arlington county, a few hundred yards from the river bank.

It is almost safe to predict that national patriotic societies all over America will soon be passing resolutions in opposition to that proposed abattoir in Arlington county, Virginia, as a violation of one of our national shrines. Already one influential member of congress has threatened to stop the whole Potomac development scheme if the Arlington county supervisors grant a permit for the plant. Already delegations have gone to Richmond to ask Governor Byrd of Virginia to prevent the proposed outrage. Already club women and American Legion posts in Washington have begun to pass resolutions about it.

To remove the war-time "temporaries" has been a struggle, and more than half of them still stand and are in use. A few went down last year, and a few more will go this year, and if the magic cry "improve the capital by 1932" is repeated often enough, the Washington visitors in that year may, indeed, see a magic city unfold before them, from the moment they leave the portals of the great Union station and gaze up a park and pampered path toward the great white dome of the structure which will long remain the triumph of all public architecture, the capital of the United States.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

There is no other agency in the world that can answer as many legitimate questions as our free Information Bureau in Washington, D. C. This highly organized institution has been built up and is under the personal direction of Frederic J. Haskin. By keeping in constant touch with Federal bureaus and other educational enterprises it is in a position to pass on to you authoritative information of the highest order. Submit your queries to the staff of experts whose services are put at your free disposal. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Does it take more effort to make a smile or a frown?
A. Thirteen muscles are required to make a smile and fifty to make a frown; therefore, the frown requires the greater expenditure of vitality.

Q. When will the race be run upon which the Calcutta Sweepstakes is bet?
A. The Derby will be run at Epsom Downs on June 5th.

Q. Who decides where the time belt lines are to be placed in the United States?
A. H. T.

Q. The adjustment of the lines dividing the standard time zones is under the direction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Q. Where is the Dropping Well?
A. R.

Q. The Dropping Well is at Knaresborough in the West Riding of Yorkshire. The waters are impregnated with lime and have a putrefying power, this action causing a curious and beautiful incrustation where the water falls over a slight cliff.

Q. Please describe a galleon, O. K. F.
A. Galleon was a name formerly given to a large kind of vessel, with three masts and three or four decks, such as those used by the Spaniards in their commerce with South America, to transport precious metals. They were large, clumsy, square-sterned vessels having bulwarks three or four feet thick, all of which were so encumbered with topmasts and so overweighted in proportion to their draft of water, that they could bear very little canvas, even with smooth seas and high wind.

Q. How many children has Rudyard Kipling?
A. The son of Rudyard Kipling is posted as missing in action during the World War. His fate is not known. The remaining child is a daughter, who married about two years ago the British Military Attaché to the Court of Spain.

East Liverpool Review Offers a Booklet of Brick Home Plans

How much rent do you pay?
Did you ever figure out how much this amounts to in five years or ten years? Take paper and pencil and work out the amount. It will surprise you.
So why not stop putting your rent money in someone else's pocket and build a home of your own? The first step is to decide on plans and in this we are ready to help. Our Washington Information Bureau has a booklet showing exterior views and floor plans of 60 brick houses that are masterpieces of the architect's skill.

Send for your copy of this valuable booklet today. Enclose four cents in coin or stamps for postage and handling costs.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Window shopping in New York not only attracts bargain hunters but illustrious figures in all walks of life. Charles M. Schwab, Otto Kahn and Clarence Mackay are often seen idling in front of windows. Irvin Cobb is an indefatigable "window shopper."

Fortunes are spent daily in the free displays. So valuable is this form of art in attracting trade that many new shops devote two-thirds of their space to cavern-like foyers with their labyrinthine maze of mirrors and gorgeously trimmed windows. Most of them are modernistic.

One large store has more than 40 display windows which are changed every other day. Such artists as Norman Bel-Geddes are retained at huge salaries to supervise decorative effects. While New York sleeps, a vast army of window dressers prepare the optical feasts for next day.

In prowling around the other day I noted down some of the go-gaws that attracted the passers-by, and here they are: Cocktail napkins embroidered with amusing drinking designs; spats with zipper fastenings; portable cellophane that are perfectly equipped bars. And musical cocktail shakers.

A ball clock with a water-filled basin in which a turtle swims to the correct time; a trunk equipped with trapshooting and fly rod outfits; a lady's toilette outfit — $2,800; platinum monogrammed money grips — $150; a mechanical doll that sings "Home Sweet Home," and a silk hat that conceals a quart flask.

A pipe rack with 52 various shaped pipes; diamond earrings fitting the curve of the ear; a traveling whisk broom with a silver flask on top; self-winding slide watches for golf; a tie clip — $230; airplane costume for ladies. And gorgeously plumed African parrots.

This gives you a slight idea of the fun in window shopping in the metropolis, and is one of the reasons why most of us are just a couple of jumps ahead of the sheriff. And riding hard!

One of the big hotels has a private banquet room strictly sound proof and used chiefly for those farewell dinners to prospective bridegrooms. Nothing seems neglected in equipment. There is even a stretcher. "We often need it," explained an attendant, "for the guest of honor."

And inner circles of society are still discussing a bachelor dinner at last Xmas time in honor of one of the young favorites whose abstemious ways were frequently remarked. He had never touched intoxicants but was induced on this memorable evening to try out a cocktail. It smacked him for a home run. So much so he stretched what started as a convivial evening into a week's toot. He lost his bride, his job, and is still whooping it up.

Not so long ago a $4-a-pound candy shop opened in the Plaza section. But what the Wall Street boys know as a "new high" in candy bazaars is to open on Park avenue with candy at $6 a pound.

And while the silly season is on, it might as well be chronicled that one of the flappers is flapping around the boulevards with a pet con on a leash — I mean she ACTUALLY is.

Eddie Buzzell, the actor, tired of the cramped life in the Broadway narrow canyon, has a yearning for the great open spaces and the life of a sportsman. "Maine for fishing and Chicago for shooting," he cries gaily.

New York is one of those complex cities where one makes friends in one section, moves to another, and rarely sees them again. Last night I met a man and wife who long ago lived in the same hotel where I lived. We were close companions. Then all of us moved. Like rain drops on a window we had run together—then vanished. If Eddie Guest cares for that one, it is all right with me. And New York being what it is, ten years passed before we got together again.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

No greater gift could be given man than freedom from the little annoyances. In a sense these are worse than the big ailments. Certainly they are more common.

How many days do you have in the year when you are entirely free from pain, aches, or discomfort of some kind? If it isn't a stomach ache, it is a headache. If it isn't a pain in your knee, it is a pain in your ear. In short, there is a pain somewhere in your body most of the time.

This should not be true. If we lived right, it wouldn't be. At least, it wouldn't be the case if back of our own right living, was a record of right living on the part of our ancestors.

But alas! we must endure many disagreeable symptoms. But let's do our part to escape their exasperating effects. With every month of correct living, will come increased prospect of dodging these little evils.

Today I shall speak of one or two such disturbances as I have in mind. The first is headache. To this I could add eye-ache, ear-ache, pain in the back and cramps in the legs. There are other pains, too. But let's talk about headache.

There are many varieties of pain in the head. It may be in the forehead, over the eyes. It may be on top of the head. It may be in the back of the neck.

It may be a dull ache, or a throbbing pain. It may be a sharp and cutting pain.

It may be a constant pain. It may come and go. It may be made worse by every movement. There are endless varieties of headache.

But it is another sort of headache I have in mind today. It is "migraine," "megrin," or sick headache I desire to describe.

Just as we have degrees of pain in all aches, so we have it in this. It may be intense, almost unbearable. It may be more or less periodic in its attacks. It may be so severe as to cause sickness at the stomach, and vomiting, even.

One variety of migraine may begin with flashes of light, partial and temporary loss of vision, and similar disturbances in vision. Half the field of vision may disappear. When you look straight ahead everything to the right or to the left, as the case may be, will be blurred or entirely invisible.

If you look at the middle of your watch dial and should be able to see every numeral on the face, some of the numbers on the watch face will not be seen. There will be a blank at that spot. This is an example of one type.

Sometimes the attacks of more pronounced sick headache give warning of their approach. There is restlessness, perhaps. There may be mental depression and perhaps sleepiness.

Then the flashes of light and headache in one spot or half the head come along. The symptoms last a few minutes, an hour, or all day. Afterward they gradually disappear.

Anemic persons and those who overwork and overeat are more likely to be involved. Indigestion, gout, great excitement or something about the menstrual periods may appear to be associated with the headache or be responsible for it.

It takes a lot of research to locate the seat of trouble. There may be a need of spectacles. But what is useful as a remedy your doctor will give you.

Answers To Health Queries.

Mrs. A. D. Q.—What do you advise for anemia where the patient's body juice with a view to reducing.

A.—It would be wise to take too much lemon juice since you are anemic. Lemon juice taken in excess will tend to thin the blood and is not weight reducing. You should be under the care of your doctor. Have him prescribe for you.

Other Editors Say

As Europe Sees Mr. Hoover.
One of the distinctions Mr. Hoover brings to his high office is that he knows Europe better than any other president has. Another is that Europe is more familiar with his name than it has been with that of any of his predecessors, with the possible exception of Washington, at the hour of his inauguration. A correspondent points out that millions of people on the continent still drop their voices when they speak of "Whovair," to a plane of profound respect. They will regard his name as "a magic word with healing properties like some celebrated herb." The masses have long memories; and those who benefited from the bounty he distributed think of him only as the reliever of war's distresses. The popular gratitude on the part of European peoples is an asset.

And so is the respect for his views engendered in the minds of European politicians by the knowledge that Mr. Hoover knows them and their ways. The political leaders of our debtor nations do not think of him in terms of bags of flour and bottles of milk. They remember that he was a member of the debt funding commission which insisted upon these who borrowed money from us at least making an honest effort to repay what they could. This explains, when the campaign was on last fall, the government class in Europe was "boosting" for his opponent, as more likely to be submissive to demands for more lenient treatment. They find nothing in Mr. Hoover's record to show that he is likely to permit this country to be stamped into the League of Nations or other foreign entanglements. They know Mr. Hoover as a statesman.

A third attitude is revealed by those interests in Europe that know him best as secretary of commerce and an apostle of American trade expansion. These interests viewed with concern surprise the vigorous steps he took to protect American industries from foreign monopolies in raw materials. Still more recently they have been disturbed by his visit to Central and South America, which they interpreted as a mission of good will, with trade just around the corner. The announcement that Great Britain is about to launch a drive to capture the trade of Argentina is an excellent indication that on the other side of the Atlantic the respect for Mr. Hoover as an economist is as great as the respect entertained for him as a statesman and as a Santa Claus.

The least common multiple of these three diverse European views of Mr. Hoover might be stated as that of a man ready to lend a helping hand to others in distress; but who expects other nations to help themselves, as he intends that his country shall do. The war is over. The presidency is not the chairmanship of a relief commission. Occasions may arise when it will be necessary for Mr. Hoover to protect American interests by measures that will displease European politicians or traders. When that happens, we hope that Europe will soften unavoidable asperities and obtain for Mr. Hoover's policies the most favorable construction.—Detroit Free Press.

direct line to the early settlers of this country?

If your forebears took an important part in shaping affairs in the early stages of this country wouldn't you have a feeling of honor for them and a certain satisfaction yourself in knowing just what they did?

If they were men and women of honesty and integrity, trusted and honored by their fellow men of that time it surely is creditable to your family.

Of course it is easy for some to side-step their own duties to this country and society at the present time and become tiresome in alluding to what their ancestors did.

There should not be the feeling that a person whose ancestors were comparatively recent arrivals in this land is not entitled to full credit for what he has attained since coming over here.

A long line of law-abiding, fearless ancestors increase one's responsibility.

The bride's father is vice-president of the Dietz Printing company.

Loyal Workers Entertain 140.

One hundred and forty guests attended the St. Patrick's Day dinner given by the Loyal Workers' class in the First Church of Christ Thursday night. A color scheme of green and white predominated in the appointments.

Mrs. Helen Davis was in charge of the dining room, and Mrs. Ernest Hummel's committee served.

Mrs. R. W. Johnson gave a piano solo; Mrs. Helen Bradford, a reading; Mrs. Kathryn Cain, a talk on the contest against Bethany class; the Rev. W. H. Baker, an address on "What Makes a Great Class," and Mrs. Virginia Rush, vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Byron Ingersoll. A playlet, "Those Husbands of Ours," was presented by Mesdames Bert Gapper, Harry Glover, Harry Davis, William Polk, Glen Galloway, L. A. Schneider and Alfred Boulton.

Mrs. William Lewis Hostess.

Mrs. William Lewis entertained members of the Art Circle club in the home of Mrs. Lillian McKeever, West Fifth street, Thursday night. Musical selections were given by Mrs. McKeever, after which a guessing contest was won by Mesdames A. L. Turk and Pearl Butcher.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lewis, assisted by Mesdames Pearl Butcher and Harry Carson, covers being arranged for 12.

In two weeks the club will meet with Mrs. Emma Bowman, St. Clair avenue.

Miss Mildred Orr Entertains.

Members of the Rainy-Night club were entertained last evening in the home of Miss Mildred Orr, Bloomfield, when a coverdish dinner was served. St. Patrick's day decorations were used.

The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Jason Orr, and Misses Ruth and Mabel Eardley.

Miss Laura North of Cleveland, and Miss Jeanette Herbert were among the guests.

Mrs. J. M. Cartwright Entertains.

The second of a series of luncheon-bridge parties was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph M. Cartwright in her home, Elysian way. The small tables were decorated with snapdragons and tulips. Covers were arranged for 28.

The hostesses was assisted in receiving the guests by her sister, Miss Bess Adams.

Bridge was the diversion. Mrs. A. G. Mason of Lisbon was an out-of-town guest.

Engagement is Denied.

Denial of their reported engagement was made today by Walter Pelly and Mrs. Rose Ford.

Pottery City

With Apologies to O. O. McIntyre

East Liverpool Greeks have one custom that has become almost second nature to them all as it is to everyone hailing originally from another section of the world and that is keeping in communication with those they have left behind in the scenes of their boyhood.

It is but natural that many of them write regularly to parents, brothers and sisters. Then in addition, there is invariably some of the local contingent on a visit back to the place they once called home.

Recently advices were received here that John Peters, who formerly had charge of the American and Strand theaters here, had arrived in New York on the steamer Lord Byron on which he shipped from Pera which is the port nearest Athens. Following the sale of his interest in the local amusement houses he left last April for a visit to his former home in Greece. He is now visiting at the home of Nestor Matthews, also a former member of the local Greek colony when he was the proprietor of the Buffalo confectionery at Market and Sixth streets. Matthews is living just out of New York City.

From Greece also has come within the last day or two a missive from Stephen Harris, who, known as "Steve," was long an employee of local restaurants. He went back for a visit early last year. He is planning to return as soon as the weather moderates sufficiently to warrant his getting out of the mountains where he says there is 15 feet of snow.

Fred Poulis is another of the East Liverpool contingent of Greeks now in his native country. He used to be with the Olympic confectionery.

Many will remember "Pete" Ganas. To all he was known as "Big Pete." He is a brother of Nicholas and "Ted" tion with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Clouse, Gaston place.

C. A. Bough of East Fifth street was a Pittsburgh visitor yesterday. S. O. Sowards of West Eighth street is recovering from a two-weeks' illness.

Mrs. Harry Green of Alliance is visiting her mother, Mrs. Bertha L. Dunn, West Sixth street.

Frank Kastrup of Kansas City, Mo., is spending the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kastrup, of Ravine street.

Mrs. Donald Kinsey, Mrs. John Elferd, Mrs. Winton Dunn and daughter Miss Irene, have concluded a visit in Youngstown.

Mrs. Minnie Butterworth of East Fourth street underwent an operation on her left hand in the City hospital this week.

Hoadley Morrow of East Third street spent yesterday in Wheeling, W. Va.

Mrs. Guy Burgess of Crook lane, who has been attending the Cleveland clinic this week, is spending the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Paul McCord, in Cuyahoga Falls.

John O. Ertel, W. H. O'Donnell and Lewis L. Hill, all of Pittsburgh, were business visitors here today.

Mrs. Charles Goodwin, Thompson avenue, and Mrs. John S. Goodwin, East Fifth street, were Pittsburgh visitors today.

Howard Brown and Alfred Levy, both of New York, transacted business here today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald have returned to their home in Indianapolis, Ind., after a visit here.

Henry B. Keister and H. W. Jones, both of Cleveland, were local visitors today.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kastner, Columbus, are visiting with relatives here.

John Maise and R. H. McIntosh, both of Canton, were business visitors here today.

Miss Alice Benter, Kansas City, Mo., has concluded a visit with friends here.

A. H. Stewart, Buckville, was a local visitor today.

W. J. Kyler, Youngstown, transacted business here today.

Mrs. S. O. Samuels, Dallas, Texas, is visiting with relatives and friends here.

C. W. O'Brien, Fullerton, Cal., was a business visitor here today.

Frederick S. Myers, Lima, was a business visitor here today.

G. W. Noeman, Wheeling, W. Va., was a local visitor today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newcome, Sandusky, were visitors here last night.

W. A. Campbell, Pittsburgh, transacted business here today.

Miss Martha Simmers has returned to her home in East Fifth street, after attending the University of St. Louis.

Mrs. Henry Ostermann of Broadway spent Thursday in Youngstown.

friends and relatives here. Thus the political activities of Greece come in for much serious discussion. Always there is information tending to awaken wishes on the part of those in this country that they might be able ultimately to visit the scenes in which they spent their youth.

Several weeks are necessary for letters to go and come between the two countries, but they are so regularly written by many that they are received with a precision suggesting the time for meals.

The camera has shortened distance between these places. Now parents back there are permitted to receive frequent photographs of grandchildren here which often they have never seen.

"It is a beautiful country" is almost the invariable comment of every Greek discussing his homeland. They remember the air even as pure when compared with the murky atmosphere of the Ohio Valley, but the lack of business activities in comparison with those in the United States causes them to continue fealty to the new country of their choice.

Dinner parties in the snow have been popular in Switzerland this winter.

"REDEMPTION" SERMON TOPIC

Rev. Harry Rodgers Leads Church of God Revival.

"When we have been redeemed back to God, Satan will have no control over us," declared the Rev. Harry Rodgers, of Cambridge, at the Church of God revival service, West Ninth street, last night. His subject was "The Redemption Story."

Seven persons went to the altar for supplication following the sermon. Another appealing song service featured the preliminary stages of the meeting. Directed by Miss Estella Sprotnan of Kittenburg, Pa., the Junior choir contributed several selections. Miss Sprotnan also sang "Sin is To Blame." Another solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," was sung by Carl Foltz of Wellsville.

There will be no services tonight. The evangelist will speak twice on Sunday, in the morning at 11 o'clock following the Sunday school and at 7:30 in the evening. At the latter service he will discuss "Divine Healing." He is desirous that all wishing to be prayed for physically be present on this occasion.

"Redemption is the suffering of Jesus by which He brings sinners to God," he said last night. "The blood of Jesus has become a ransom for all."

"We cannot purchase salvation by silver and gold; only by the blood of Jesus can this boon be brought about. 'Though there is a great deal of talk about new methods the story of redemption never grows old and is ever new for it brings freedom to the soul.'"

MIDNIGHT CURFEW LAW IN EFFECT

HARTFORD, N. C.—In this little town of 1,000 Mayor H. C. Stokes, annoyed by late hour "goings on," has ordered the police chief to see to it that all filling stations, cafes, and other places of business close at midnight.

The police chief was told to arrest the proprietors of places which are lighted or unlocked at that hour.

RENOUNCE SIN, PASTOR'S PLEA

Rev. S. E. West Preaches on Topic, "Repent Ye."

Utilizing the words of John the Baptist, "Repent Ye," for a text the Rev. S. E. West, the pastor, declared there could be no salvation for any one without individual repentance, at the Free Methodist church revival last night.

At the conclusion of his sermon three persons went forward to the altar for supplication.

He announced that he would preach twice on Sunday. His morning subject will be "All the Way to Obtain a Better Church Experience," and in the evening his topic will be based on the scriptural words, "The spirit will not always strive with man." He will also speak tonight.

"Repentance is the change of the mind which is closely connected with the heart," he said. "And when God's laws have been transgressed this change is absolutely demandful. People do not shout over repentance, but it is only by a public confession that it can be ascertained that repentance has been had."

"People repent in their hearts before the public know it has taken place. Some think repentance can only occur at the altar, but God will meet many any place."

He said that with repentance restitution must be made. "If slanderous talk against one has been done the repentant person will go to him or her and make it right. It is not necessary to do this publicly.

"When repentance is had there enters into the heart a hatred for sin. Thus the repentant person will renounce his sin. Conviction will make him stop sin even before salvation has been consummated."

"It is a blissful feeling when repentance takes place. Then we know God and know we belong to Him."

"If there is no rebellion in our hearts we can soon find repentance."

Genoa To Add Railway. To care for its growing population, Genoa, Italy, is to add another funicular railway. It will be nearly three miles long and operated by electricity, part of the equipment being from America. Because of its location among high hills which reach down to the sea, Genoa now has three funicular railways and five groups of elevators. The new railway will supply transportation to suburban districts which are expected to be fully developed within six years.

England has a new movement for penny postage.

Short Talk By a Thoughtful Mother. An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Zanesville Physician Mentioned as Police Squad Acts.

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 16.—Ten alleged gamblers and gunmen from Detroit, Cleveland and Columbus were under arrest today, guns, ammunition, bombs and gambling devices were in the possession of authorities and another chapter was written in the history of the Southern club, Pickaway county's supposed "Monte Carlo," near here, following a quiet raid on a fashionable downtown hotel here late yesterday.

The raid and arrest followed a complaint made to police here that a Zanesville physician had lost $100,000 at the Southern club. According to raiders, all of the men admitted having some connection with the Southern club or the Western club, the latter an alleged gambling resort on the outskirts of the city here.

Among those taken into custody were William Schwartz, Columbus raceman and gambler, and who recently gained statewide notoriety when he made private business trips while supposedly serving out a federal prison term in the Delaware county jail.

Prisoners Believed Gunmen.
Nearly all of the men are believed to have given "phony" names, as it is expressed in police parlance. Despite the fact they gave Columbus addresses, police here, though refusing to give their real names, said they were known gunmen.

All were quartered in luxurious rooms or lavish suites at the hotel. When detectives arrested Schwartz, he was conferring with A. A. Porter, a Zanesville attorney, who, it is said, represents the interests on the Zanesville physician.

Police found two bombs, a number of guns, 17 sets of dice, a roulette wheel, and a quantity of bonded liquor. Those having the whisky in their possession were turned over to federal authorities. The others are held on suspicious person charges, while to see if any of the men are "wanted," Schwartz gained his liberty on bond, shortly after his arrest.

Other Losses Reported
This is not the first time that large amounts of money were said to have been lost at the Pickaway county club, situated about 18 miles south of here. A Columbus girl recently charged that she lost $7,000 at the club, and two well-known actors, filling an engagement at a local theater here, are said to have lost $10,000 in one night at the club.

District Attorney W. B. Bartels here has notified Pickaway county authorities that gambling has been on at the club, but subsequent raids revealed no law violations.

Those arrested last night, who gave Cleveland addresses are: Dan Gallagher and John P. Jones.

3,000 INSPECT ERLANGER STORE

Rain failed to interfere with the formal opening of the new Erlanger store at Fifth and Washington streets last night. More than 3,000 persons visited the store.

More than $50,000 has been expended in remodeling the store. The improvements include new arcade type show windows and an elevator.

The company now occupies the three floors of the Golding building.

Picture of Death

In the Elba district, a mad maelstrom in the converges of the Pea river and White Water creek which left only houseposts showing above the vast expanse of water that reached for miles around. During the night more than 1,000 of the town's 4,000 marooned population were conveyed by small motor craft to the safety of refuge camps, and the water was slowly receding.

The disastrous aspect of the Alabama situation was increased today when army observation planes scouted over Geneva, Ala., near the stricken town of Elba, and reported 5,000 persons marooned on their houseposts while gurgling torrents submerged all one-story buildings. A rescue will be attempted late today.

The number of homeless was increased by nearly 1,000 when reports from National Guard base on the edge of Elba said that more than 700 persons were trapped on an island one mile and a half from Elba, surrounded by 15 feet or more of water.

Many Zones Suffer.
Meanwhile the fate of several thousand inhabitants of Geneva, 40 miles south of the confluence of the Pea and Choctawhatchee rivers, was sealed to the outside world. There has been no communication with the stricken city in 24 hours.

Thousands of others were marooned in south Alabama towns.

Northwest Florida also was hard hit. The townspeople of Carryville were reported to have left their homes and gone to Bonifay for safety before a predicted crest of 30 feet in the Choctawhatchee river.

Throughout central and south Georgia rivers were at flood stage, and thousands of acres were submerged.

West Point, Ga., a town of 25,000, was under five feet of water, and the residents, with food and provisions, moved to comparative safety in the second stories of their homes.

collar, or necessary to look like a little boy after a hard day's play. Modern soft collars keep their position, and do not press upon the neck.

WEAR THEM DAY AND EVENING.

THERE is an old saying that you cannot keep a squirrel on the ground. Wall street prices are like that squirrel. It seems impossible to keep them down.

All the warnings, various interest rates, all solemn intimations of the "sold out bulls" have no effect.

Wednesday, for instance, Radio stock jumped up more than 32 points, crossing $500. Call money was only 6 1/2 per cent. It is hard to form a corner in money, even with the aid of billion dollar banks. Bears will have to wait a little longer.

BERLIN seeks to establish a "talkie" trust in Europe, a $100,000,000 company, to control Europe's talking picture.

That would be a small company for America. William Fox, originator of the Movietone talking picture, recently purchased control of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company and the Marcus Lowe theaters. He has in his hands now an organization amounting to at least $300,000,000.

PROF. EINSTEIN, 50 years old, Wednesday, retired with his wife from public view, to think about relativity and the fourth dimension.

He is especially amazed at the great interest in his discoveries in the United States. And he well may be. Not 10 men in the United States understand them.

A special master appointed by the court decided that the big telephone company, having invested hundreds of millions of additional capital, is entitled to a bigger return. The company will probably get $22,000,000 a year more.

To him that hath shall be given. At least admit that the company gives good service, and that its young ladies that say "Thank you" are marvels of gentle, polite efficiency.

THERE is a plan to bridge the English Channel by constructing two islands with bridges over the intervening space. The job would cost about $500,000,000, which, the promoters think, "could be borrowed in America."

What becomes of the recent solemn British statement that "United States capital is not wanted in England?"

When we see news films we rarely realize the risks run by cameramen. Those risks are great and occasionally death proves it.

On Wednesday at Daytona, Fla., Mr. Bibbe, trying for a new automobile speed record, was killed when his car was going at 202 miles an hour.

The crowd stood well back, watching the race, but Charles Traub, grinding a newsreel camera knew it was his duty to show the machine, traveling four miles a minute, coming head-on. He stood with his camera planted slightly to one side of the straight course. When the driver lost control the car leaped and rolled.

It was too late for Traub to save himself. His dead body was laid out beside that of the driver.

That is the price paid sometimes for news pictures.

New Cumberland Meet.
Hale, whose subject was "The Treaty-Making Powers Under the Constitution," was the winner in a four-cornered contest. The other contestants were Miss Jane Jester, New Cumberland, who spoke on "The Constitution," second place winner; Miss Iva McComas, Newell, "The Citizen, His Privileges and Duties Under the Constitution," third place, and Miss Sylvia Thomas, Weirton, "The Constitution," fourth.

Judges were the Rev. W. C. Latta, pastor of the Wellsville United Presbyterian church; the Rev. W. H. Bullock, pastor of the Fairview Presbyterian church, Pughtown, and Mrs. J. B. Porter, Arroyo. County Superintendent of Schools H. O. Miller, Pughtown, presided. Music was in charge of the New Cumberland high school orchestra and chorus.

Cash prizes totaling $32.50 were awarded the contestants by the Hancock County Building & Loan association, Chester. Hale received $15, Miss Jester $10, Miss McComas $5 and Miss Thomas $2.50.

Winner in the Steubenville contest will go to Pittsburgh on April 19 to compete against winner of other regional tournaments. The victor at Pittsburgh will go to Harrisburg on April 25. The national finals will be held at Washington on May 25.

CALLES ARMY AWAITS BATTLE NEAR DURANGO

City Transferred Into Base for Mexican Federals.

REBELS NERVOUS

Insurgents' Positions Surrounded; Revolt Nearing End.

By International News Service.

Having occupied Durango and transformed it into a base, Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, field commander of the Mexican federals, today was moving his army into battle positions in front of the rebel lines on the Coahuila-Durango border.

There were indications that the rebels under Gen. Juan Escobar might not give battle to the federals. Outnumbered more than two to one and lacking artillery and airplanes, the rebels were obviously nervous over the outcome of a general engagement.

The insurgents' positions have been virtually surrounded and it is believed they have been cut off from their base in Chihuahua City by the mixed forces under Gen. Juan Almazan and Gen. Saturnino Cedillo.

The rebels claim that 900 federals maintained south of Mazatlan, joining the rebel standard.

The Mexico City government claims that the backbone of the revolution has been broken.

Escobar Quits Torreón
MEXICO CITY, March 16.—(INS)—President Emilio Portes Gil today announced the receipt of official information that Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar's rebel army is evacuating its positions at Torreón without firing a shot in their defense.

Airmen attached to Gen. Saturnino Cedillo's federal army, who flew over the Torreón district, reported the departure of numerous troop trains for the north. They said the rebels appeared to be panic-stricken.

"The debacle of the rebels at Torreón is complete," President Portes Gil told the newspaper correspondents.

The president said he received his first intimation of the rebel flight last night and that dispatches from the front today confirmed it.

FRITZ KRAMER FUNERAL SUNDAY

Body of Fritz Kramer, 65, retired coal miner and inventor of a so-called fuelless motor who ended his life yesterday by firing a bullet into his head in his room at the home of A. D. Osborne, Second and Washington streets, Newell, will be taken to Connelville, Pa., tomorrow morning for burial.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, returned a verdict last night that Kramer came to his "death at his own hands."

Kramer leaves his widow, four sons and two daughters.

300 AT CHURCH RECEPTION HERE

Approximately 300 guests attended the reception and get-together meeting last night in the auditorium of the First United Presbyterian church, Sixth and Jefferson streets.

Addresses were made by W. W. Sloan and D. M. Ogilvie. Selections were given by a quartet made up of B. F. Laughlin, Lee Adams, Emmett J. and Carl Gaston, vocal solos, by Mrs. Wilda Warner Warman, Youngstown and Paul Hannahs, and a reading by Miss Ruth Sloan.

Mrs. J. T. Carey, I. A. Hoffman, Jesse Fisher, Carl Gaston, Vance Andrews, William McGraw and J. E. Butler served refreshments.

Arnolds Await Fate

of O. C. Watts, Orrville nightwatchman, who testified that there was some discrepancy in the story told by Junior Hanna.

It was a dramatic plea, vibrant with emotions and charged with the electricity of oratory.

"If Watts was so certain the Arnolds were innocent," Mougey challenged, "why was he hunting for buttons in the ashes of the Arnold furnace two days before Junior told his story?"

"How does it happen," Mougey demanded in a roaring voice, "that Bascom and Dorothy McHenry went to Fredericksburg where they were 'invited' to supper, but got there after it was over?"

Mougey, quoting from Don Quixote, declared the defense was "finding the windmills all the way." It is thought that Mougey meant that the state had succeeded in shattering the alibis of the two persons accused.

After this outburst, Mougey abandoned his booming voice, and in a husky whisper that sent a death-like pall of silence over the courtroom, he went over the story told by Junior Hanna and pointed out it was corroborated by the finding of the orange and the testimony of Tony Yonto and other boys, who saw Melvin and Junior together shortly before the four-year-old boy disappeared, never to be heard from again.

Y. M. SPEAKER

Marking the first of three addresses to be delivered here within three days, A. A. Ebersole, of Chicago, former Y. M. C. A. secretary in Poland and other European countries, will speak on "A New Day in Old Europe" at the Sunday afternoon club meeting in the Y. M. C. A. at 3:45 o'clock tomorrow.

At 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night he will speak in the First Methodist Episcopal church. On Tuesday he will be the guest speaker at the Rotary club luncheon.

MARSHAL FOCH HAS RELAPSE

Nine Doctors Called to French Hero's Bedside.

PARIS, March 16.—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, famous French soldier, who is ill of heart and kidney trouble, suffered a serious relapse today. Nine doctors were hurriedly summoned into consultation at the residence.

An urgent operation was necessary but the doctors decided the patient was too weak to stand the strain.

Despite his excessive loss of strength the marshal's temperature was normal.

Members of the Foch household were deeply worried, believing that the low mark of the marshal's long illness has been reached.

A member of Marshal Foch's staff told International News Service: "It seems now that only a miracle can save him."

HARDWARE MEN BANQUET GUESTS

Employees of the King-Eells Hardware company and factory representatives of the T. H. Nevins company, Pittsburgh paint manufacturers, held a banquet in the Travelers' hotel last night.

The guests were: H. R. Gibbs, sales manager; L. C. Moorehouse, advertising manager; W. A. Campbell, decorating expert, and William O'Donald, chemist, all of Pittsburgh, and the following employees of the store: Messrs. H. A. Richards, Orin D. Schultz, T. M. Ward, L. Dan Richards, Samuel Dickey, Nicholas Schultz and Harold Powell.

STORM CAUSES STREET WASHOUTS

Other than a few street washouts, little damage was caused by the hail and rain storm which swept the East Liverpool district at 8:30 o'clock last night. Lightning accompanied the storm, to which hail played a stinging accompaniment for a few minutes.

Government weather men say the storm was a part of the rainstorms which have been reported in the eastern Gulf states, ending five days of balmy weather.

Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore reported washouts in Jethro and West Seventh street. Other streets were littered with dirt which was washed down from the hillsides.

Few telephones were put out of commission. There was no break in electric light service. Street cars were interrupted for a few minutes.

WOODBINE OPENS $30,000 LAUNDRY

The Woodbine Laundry & Dry Cleaning company, has opened its new $30,000 fire-proof laundry and dry cleaning plant at Pennsylvania and Central avenues, East End.

The new building of brick and concrete construction is equipped with the latest type of dry cleaning machinery. Carpets, rugs, draperies, curtains, men's and women's clothing and similar articles will be handled.

The front part of the building is occupied as office quarters, while the cleaning department is in the rear. The company will continue to handle laundry at its West Fourth street plant.

PASTORS TO HEAR V. A. SCHREIBER

Former Mayor V. A. Schreiber, Canton district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, will discuss law enforcement at a meeting of the Ministerial association in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

A. A. Ebersole, who has been a Y. M. C. A. secretary at Lodz, Poland, for several years, will also address the ministers.

DeMOLAYS WILL HEAR SERMON

"The Sweetest Song That Was Ever Sung" will be the subject of the Rev. W. T. McCandless, of the Second United Presbyterian church, St. George and Mulberry streets, when he delivers a sermon to Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Members of the chapter will meet at the Masonic temple, Broadway, at 10 o'clock. They will go to the East End church in automobiles.

E. A. HARRIS, 68, PITTSBURGH, DIES

Funeral services for E. A. Harris, 68, bricklayer, formerly of East Liverpool, who died Thursday, will be held tonight in his home, 317 South Millvale avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa. Burial will be made there tomorrow.

Mr. Harris was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harris of East Liverpool.

He leaves his widow, one son, Dr. Charles Harris; a daughter, Dr. Ethel Jordan, and one brother, J. W. Harris of Pittsburgh.

Grade School Passers Complete First Round

Twenty-four Entries Reduced to 12 as Embryo Cage Stars Prepare for Final Dash; Four Tilts Scheduled Tonight.

With the total number of entries cut exactly in two, grade school basketball teams, competing for the city championship in an elimination tournament at the auditorium, last night completed their first round contests. Of the 24 original contenders 12 now face the wire for the final dash.

Second round battles are scheduled tonight in the auditorium as follows:

Seventh Grade.

Sixth Street No. 1 vs. Lincoln.

Maplewood vs. Horace Mann.

Eighth Grade.

McKinley vs. Sixth Street No. 1.

Central No. 1 vs. Horace Mann No. 2.

The two other seventh grade teams are McKinley and Glenmore, and the two remaining eighth grade entries are Sixth Street No. 2 and Lincoln, making six squads in each division.

The McKinley-Glenmore, Sixth Street-Lincoln tilts may be staged Monday night although Directors Lorah and Watkins were not certain today about the arrangements.

However, when each division has been pared to three teams each, there will be another drawing, for the semi-finals and finals in each class.

It was announced today that admission prices of 10 and 25 cents will be charged for the games.

McKinley seventh graders eliminated Pleasant Heights, 19 to 3. Glenmore seventh graders knocked out Washington, 30 to 13. Sixth Street Eighth graders trimmed Neville, 24 to 12, and Lincoln knocked out Central, 23 to 18, in contests last night.

The Lincoln-Central combat probably topped them all to date. The game went into two extra periods, the count having been 14-11 at the end of the game. In the first extra period, each team tacked on four points and in the second, Wright and Goodwin registered the necessary baskets for Lincoln.

Laughlin, Lincoln; H. Graham, Glenmore; M. Sinclair, Sixth Street; Rhoades, Neville; Leibschner and Goodwin for Lincoln, Dotson and Brant for Central were the stars. In Thursday night's contests Maplewood seventh defeated Central Seventh, 26-14; Horace Mann Seventh won from Sixth Street seventh, 14-13; Central Eighth trimmed Garfield, 25 to 2; and Horace Mann Eighth just nosed out Washington, 8 to 7.

Hoosiers Set Pro Loop Pace

CLEVELAND, March 16.—The long expected shakeup in the American professional basketball league standings was accomplished this week and Rochester, league leader just a week ago, was in fourth place today.

Fort Wayne has a precarious grip on first place while Cleveland and Brooklyn, tied for second, are just a step behind. Cleveland's Rosenblum's are determined that they will tie with the Hoosiers tonight and step ahead of them tomorrow night, by winning successive games at Paterson and Brooklyn.

A close race down the stretch is assured as the schedule will be concluded a week from tomorrow. The Rosies, winners of the first half season championship, are determined to take the second half title also, thus doing away with the necessity for a "world's series."

Singer Wins From Taylor In New York

"Implausible Verdict" Awarded Eastern Fighter.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 16.—There was no balm in Gilead or Terez in Al Singer last night as this bright young man got away with another more or less implausible verdict over Bud Taylor, former heavyweight champion, in the second episode of their "was-it-or-wasn't-it?" at Madison Square Garden.

The lack of Terez in Singer was somewhat surprising to the many who had witnessed with disapproval his successful claim of foul against Taylor in the same ring some time ago. The lack of balm wasn't surprising. It follows every unpopular decision in one of the big town's big fights and this verdict wasn't quite as popular as a rising vote of thanks.

Personally, I felt that, if they called this fight anything but a draw they had to leave somebody short in his change.

It just happened to be Taylor who was elected to hand over the two dimes for a nickel. Kept under a constant vocal surveillance by Referee Tommy Sheridan, who evidently was in there to see that no more smashes down the foul line were called out of their name, Taylor probably was hampered in his efforts to carry on his body attack. Yet he kept it going regardless, and if he had been the man he used to be, there would have been no question about who was to get the curtain call at the end. Taylor was yards in front at the close of five dashes. But, unfortunately, he called this one for ten and they held it last night, not two years ago. Singer came awfully fast after the gallant veteran tired, as gallant vets will and do.

It takes a pretty good man to come forward when he has to. Therefore the question, much mooted in these parts, as to whether Singer is another Terez or another Leonard seems to have been answered in this wise; he is neither.

Dover Drops Lima Five; Stivers Wins; Canton Loses.

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—Dayton Stivers, Columbus Central, Portsmouth and Dover in class A, and Bluffton, Youngstown Boardman, Akron St. Mary's and Stryker in class B enter the second round of the most bitterly-fought state basketball tournament ever staged by Ohio scholastic teams.

In the first game of yesterday's card, Bluffton doubled its score over West Chester, but only after a close game, which looked like a victory for the latter in the first part of the contest. The boys from the northwest came from behind in the second period to win, 39 to 16. Bluffton was scheduled to meet the classy Youngstown Boardman team this afternoon in the opening game of the second round at 1 o'clock.

The Boardman-Pomeroy game was closer than the score predicted. Things were "nip and tuck" during the first frame, but the Youngstown quintet outshot their opponents, by one point, and the score stood at 9 to 8. Pomeroy failed to come back in the last half, and Boardman seemed to possess new strength, walking away with a 28 to 17 victory. Boardman is expected to beat Bluffton this afternoon, qualifying for the finals tonight, with the winner of the Akron St. Mary's-Stryker game as the opponent, which will likely be the parochial outfit.

The afternoon's first class A game was all Dayton Stivers from start to finish, the defending champions disqualifying Akron Garfield, 27 to 16. Stivers was confident, but not too much so, and possessed a reserve that, if called for, would have run up the score more than was the case. The champs are favored to win from Columbus Central this afternoon, thus going to the finals to defend the title for the seventh time.

The last game on the program yesterday afternoon, was a real fight, with Columbus Central ending up on top, 30 to 24, after a spurt in the last few minutes against the classy Bowling Green team. Williamson, scoring ace of the Box Gies, accounted for half his team's points by dropping six buckets. Central enters the semi-finals this afternoon against Stivers, but the chances for a Central victory are slim.

Last evening's play opened with a class B game between Akron St. Mary's and Marysville. It was, by far, the best game on the B program, both teams showing class and championship form. The entire game was close. The score was tied several times. The greatest comeback that has been witnessed in a number of years was staged by the Akron ladies. Trailing at the half, 20 to 8, St. Mary's came back in the second period, tied the score 23-21 and forged ahead to a 31 to 28 victory, but only after a terrific fight. Logsdon, star forward and captain of the Rubber City five, showed the cleverest floor work of any forward on a class B team, and should gain further honors in tonight's game with Stryker.

Stryker downed the big Macksburg five in the last half of that game, 21 to 14, in a sloppy, slow contest. Neither team showed championship tendencies, stalling and being undecided as to what to do with the ball. Strykerites showed some power, however, when they ran up the score in the second frame, winning with a seven-point margin.

Portsmouth staggered the upset of the first round—a very big upset—by turning back the fast Canton McKinley team, 33 to 21. When the two teams faced each other at the starting whistle, things looked very favorable for the Bulldogs, but Portsmouth displayed a defense hard for any team to overcome, and after holding McKinley back to a safe margin, showed how to drop buckets, too. The "Trojans," as the Portsmouth team is known, surprised everyone, in its strength and ability. Fuggitt, Trojan center, is a classy ball player. He totaled 12 points for the game, with Smith, a forward, trailing close with 11.

Dover, 1927 state champions, did as predicted by overwhelming Lima St. Rose, 36 to 16. The game was one-sided throughout, the Dover lads showing real form and power. Low, star forward, was responsible largely for Dover's victory, scoring seven field goals and six free throws for a total of 20 points.

Class A.

Dayton Stivers, 27; Akron Garfield, 16.

Columbus Central, 30; Bowling Green, 24.

Portsmouth, 33; Canton McKinley, 21.

Dover, 36; Lima St. Rose, 16.

Class B.

Bluffton, 32; West Chester, 16.

Boardman, 28; Pomeroy, 17.

Akron St. Mary's, 31; Marysville, 28.

Stryker, 21; Macksburg, 14.

VANGUARD

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

"My dear, how clever of you!" said Lady Furber, in a state of considerable joyous excitement. And Lady Furber showed also that Harriet's swift discovery of her had somewhat taken her aback.

"Of course," said Harriet, as they entered the privacy of the apartment, "I guessed you'd use that incognito we invented for that week-end of ours in Flushing once. I admit it was rather clever of me."

"But—"

Maidie Furber was a woman of medium height and age; that is to say, she was a little shorter and a little older than Harriet. A verdant negligee well set off her coppery-reddish hair. She had a fresh complexion and her demeanor was vivacious. You could see instantly that she belonged to the category of what in the Five Towns, and no doubt elsewhere, are called "down-right" women. No airs. No pretense. "This is just me, and here I am." Slightly nervous. But dignified and feeling confidence in her own common sense and force of character. "I've been in tight places, but I've always come through." And withal, a sturdy habit of command. And an eye, a snub nose and a mouth that could not be trifled with. In short, a complete individual.

"But what's happened to you, Harry?" cried Lady Furber.

"They were shaking hands again on the hearting, in front of a speck of fire. They had not kissed, and did not kiss. Lady Furber was not a woman-kisser. Since she was grown up she has kissed only two human beings; one was a man and the other his child.

"Happened to me?" said Harriet. "Nothing. What do you mean?" She blushed.

"You look so—kind of radiant," said Lady Furber, discovering traces of a local accent.

"Well, isn't seeing you enough?" said Harriet, still blushing; she foresaw the moment when it would be her duty and different pleasure to confess to Maidie "all"—or most of it.

Women doubtless exist who, in similar circumstances, would not have known "where to begin." But Maidie knew precisely where to begin, and though she was always conscious (not without an agreeable snub satisfaction therein) of Harriet's superior birth and distinction of carriage, Maidie began. After all, she was the older, she was a mother and not a spinster, and she had the disposal of mints of money.

"Now how did you find me out, my dear? You've given me a regular shock, you know."

"But you couldn't hope not to be seen and recognized," said Harriet.

"Why not? People often aren't. Indeed, they generally aren't. It isn't as if I was a Monte Carlo kind of a woman. I'm not. I shouldn't know any of the folks here, and they wouldn't know me. I said to myself I'd take my chance. How was it?"

Harriet explained.

"And this other Tunncliffe, the wireless man? Is he all right?"

"He's horrid, and yet he isn't. Yes, he is, but he won't say anything. Nobody knows but him and me—up to now."

Harriet was forgetting that she had told the Honorable Luke. But then her recollection of her talk with this young man was extremely confused.

"So you're not surprised at me coming, are you?"

"No. I'm not exactly surprised. But why did you come?"

"Well, it was all in the papers about the goings-on on the yacht, so I thought I was entitled to have a look for myself."

"But you got my cable, of course?"

"I got it twelve hours late, and by the time it came I'd fixed everything to come straight off to Ostia or wherever it might be. I'm like that, you know. Picked it up from Ralph—not but what I had it before I married him. Your cable made me change my ticket, that was all."

"I'm surprised you couldn't get a seat in the blue train at such short notice."

"You wouldn't be if you knew a bit more of Ralph. He's got a lot of shares in the Sleeping Car Company. Besides, everybody always does everything he wants. You simply say: 'It's for Lord Furber—or Lady ditto,' and the things are done! Convenient, my dear."

"I don't quite understand, even now, about those women being on board."

"But I told you in my cable it was all owing to me—just me."

"Well, you know what telegrams are."

"I spent 225 lire on mine, anyhow," said Harriet.

"Why! It was the longest cable I ever sent or ever heard of."

"It was fine," said Maidie.

She was standing up, and she put her podgy little hands on Harriet's shoulders for half a minute. Harriet had sat down on a sofa. "Now tell me all about how you came to be in the yacht at all. It was just like you. Just!"

Harriet told. Now and then she laughed hesitatingly, and Lady Furber laughed hesitatingly. Then Lady Furber took a chair opposite to Harriet.

And Harriet refused a cigarette, and Lady Furber smoked a cigarette, though very amateurishly. And they laughed more freely and more frequently.

"We must have some tea," said Lady Furber, suddenly, and rang the bell. "Tea for two, please!" she turned curtly to the bowing waiter. "Here! Here's the tea to make it with. Three teaspoonful. Bring me back the packet, please." She handed over a small packet which lay on the mantelpiece. "Has he understood me?" she asked Harriet when the man had gone.

After the tea interval, Lady Furber said:

"And this, Mr. Sutherland? I know her a bit. She's fluffier and more girly than her daughters. What was Ralph after with him?"

"Oh!" Harriet replied. "Some deal. Buying a business. Trying to buy it. Several businesses. One of those city deals. Millions in it, I gather."

"Oh, millions? Really?"

"Yes," said Harriet. "Millions."

"And Mr. Sutherland won't?"

"No."

"Well, if he stands up to Ralph and sticks to it, he's somebody—I'll say that for him."

"He'll stand up to him, and stick to it," said Harriet, as it were proud of her Septimus.

"I'm not so sure," Lady Furber murmured reflectively. And then very vivaciously, and with a certain constraint: "Well, you've made the acquaintance now of my man. What do you think of him? I mean really."

Her smile was sincere, confident, and an invitation to sincerity and confidence. The pair, helped by tea, were on the terms of two men entered intimate by long unclouded friendship and mutual esteem—or as near thereto as a pair of women could ever be.

"Oh, well! I like him," said Harriet, easily.

She felt, and they both felt, that they had safely passed the dangerous stage of the interview.

"You think I don't quite appreciate him properly, eh?" said Lady Furber.

"Not at all," Harriet answered. "I'm sure you appreciate him. I admit he's a little spoiled."

"A little, my girl! I used to think that no man could be as difficult as he was when he lived in the same house with his father and his sisters in Bursley, and the menfolk always sat down to meals in their shirt sleeves! Seems a 'hundred years ago! But truly he's more difficult now. Much more. And yet he's learnt a lot since then. So've I! * * * Funny that if I'd thought to tell you the name of his yacht, you mightn't ever have gone on board, and all this wouldn't have happened!"

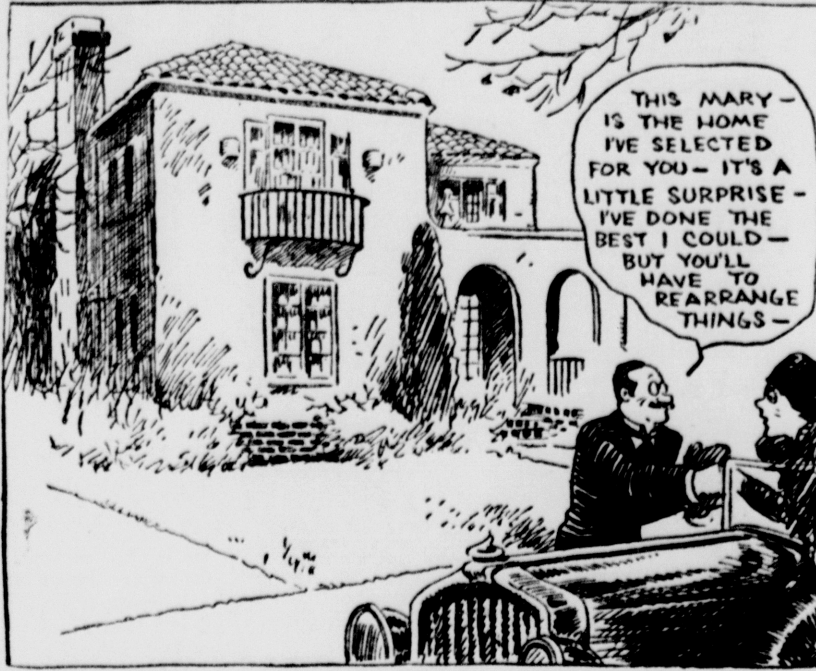

"But nothing's happen, Maidie. I mean so far as you and he are concerned. Seems to me the point is what happened before he joined the yacht—seeing that we're talking."

Explanations

"Seing as how we're talking," Lady Furber repeated the phrase musingly, in the idiom of her youth. "I'll tell you. It all came out of a row I had with one of my tradesmen. It wasn't anything and yet it's everything. I owed them about a thousand or eleven hundred pounds, and I said I wouldn't pay it because I reckoned I was being swindled, and nothing would make me pay it and I never would pay it as long as I lived. Of course, Ralph said I was wrong—you know how a man simply loves to take the opposite side.

Jacob McBee Killed In Fall, Sheriff Says

J. S. D. Mercer Believes Chester Potter's Body Was Placed on Road After Accident.

CHESTER, W. Va., March 16.—Sheriff J. S. D. Mercer, of New Cumberland, who has been investigating the death of Jacob McBee, 42, potter, whose body was found along the Fairview road near Chester, Sunday, Mar. 4, today expressed the belief that the man came to his death from a fall down a flight of steps. He discredited the theory that McBee was murdered. Mercer believes McBee's neck was broken in a fall from a porch. The fall, according to Mercer, was heard by friends who picked him up, took him into a nearby house, washed his face and while he was still living started to take him home.

When the man died en route, his friends left the body on the road, a short distance from the Chester city limits, to give the appearance that he had been struck and killed by a passing automobile, Mercer said.

HOUSE SLASHES SCHOOL FUND

Annual Appropriation Cut Over Protest Of Governor.

An annual appropriation of $1,250,000 for the state aid school fund was reduced to $1,000,000 yesterday by the house of delegates during the consideration of the biennial budget bill at Charleston.

An appropriation of $100,000 for expansion of the state penitentiary was retained in the bill upon the ground that the overcrowded conditions there were "the most deplorable in the country" and "ought not to be tolerated longer."

In both of these actions the house accepted the recommendations of its finance committee and rejected those of the budget commission, composed of Governor Conley and other members of the board of public works. The vote on the school fund was 29 to 38, with 17 members absent.

The house committed itself to the two-year building program for various state institutions, as recommended by the budget commission at the instance of the senate finance committee, but showed a disposition to fix its own expansions in changing the expansion program from a four to a two-year basis. In the only two instances that the building program came before the lower chamber, fig-

AT THE CERAMIC THEATRE

Scene from 'The LONE WOLF'S DAUGHTER.'

The famous "Lone Wolf" again slips from under the strong arm of the law and brings to bay two international crooks. Once more Bert Lytell is seen in the role of the "Lone Wolf," a character which he created upon the screen and in which he has appeared once each season for the past several years. It would be difficult to think of the "Lone Wolf" without associating him with Lytell. This time the famous crackman is presented in an entirely new environment. At the Ceramic theater today.

ures other than those recommended by the commission in its supplemental budget were inserted into the pending measure.

MAYHEW FUNERAL RITES MONDAY

Funeral services for J. H. Mayhew, 75, who died yesterday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. Y. Miller, Indiana avenue, will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Pughtown Christian church in charge of the Rev. W. T. McKee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Chester. Burial will be made at New Cumberland.

Mr. Mayhew was born in Pughtown, a son of the late James N. and Mary Jane Crawford Mayhew. He lived most of his life in that section of the county.

He leaves one son, John H. Mayhew, Pughtown; two daughters, Mrs. R. C. Evans, Holliday's Cove; Mrs. E. Y. Miller, Chester; eight brothers, Thomas C. Mayhew, Norfolk, Neb.; David E. the other. All things, not of the kingdom of God, will similarly perish."

Two Sermons Sunday.

He stressed the advisability of finding God in youth. He recalled one of the Methodist bishops asking all of the ministers attending a conference who had done so before 16 to rise. Four-fifths of them stood upon their feet and practically all of the remainder when the age limit was lifted to 20.

He defined genius as "the art of living with the major issues of life."

He mentioned Philip Brooks' advice to ministers: "Keep yourselves at the center of your ministry and not on some point of the circumference."

"What we eat, drink or withal be clothed are not the main issues of life but rather the kingdom of God which is within us and which consists of righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit," he said. "It is reflected in the opening sentence of the Lord's Prayer: 'Thy Kingdom come.'"

He recalled that the Christ during his final 40 days upon the earth following the resurrection constantly referred to the necessity of all getting into the kingdom of God.

Several selections, directed by William Mautz, choral leader, were sung by the young folks in attendance during the service.

"Go forward" will be the morning subject of the Rev. Mr. Wisman on Sunday, while in the evening he will discuss "Repentance."

Stops Coughs.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound quickly stops coughs, heals inflamed tissues, and, without effort, raises phlegm, clearing the throat of irritating mucus. No chloroform to dry up natural and necessary secretions. No opiates to constipate—a superior blend of pure pine tar, fresh laxative honey, together with other cough and tissue healing ingredients. Insist upon Foley's, the original Honey and Tar Compound, and accept no other. Ask your druggist, Carahan's 3 Drug Stores.—Adv.

A Word of Thanks

To the Citizens of East Liverpool and vicinity who made the Opening and Inspection of our Newer Store such a great success by their attendance.

To our patrons, who have been so patient and so considerate through all the inconveniences of reconstructing.

To the contractors and faithful workers, who accomplished the gigantic task of reconstructing and modernizing the entire building in such a short space of time.

To the members of our store family, who have worked almost day and night under the most difficult circumstance.

To the manufacturers who have cooperated so generously in helping to make this Progress Event one that will be long remembered.

We write this feeling that all our efforts toward a Greater, Better Erlanger's would have been in vain without the fullest expression of our appreciation.
